XL Hoops Basketball Programs Skill Level Definitions:

We don't judge Beginner, Beginner w/Benefits, Intermediate, Advanced or Elite based off of "where you previously played, trained with, etc." It's based on your skill level and mastery of certain skills/abilities

Beginner- First time ever playing basketball. Doesn't know or have basic fundamentals (dribbling, passing, defense, footwork). Can't get open on the perimeter. Struggles to play in 1-on-1 and 2-on-2 scenarios (playing out of Triple Threat). Can't make layups with any accuracy.

Intermediate- Displays fundamentals (dribbling, passing, defense, footwork) at a functional level. Can utilize fundamentals against other players to score or curtail another player from scoring. Their presence in a game or drill alone will push a team to win. Can make 1-on-1 moves and get open to score with decent accuracy.

Advanced- Fundamentals and skills are beyond their age group. Can use fundamentals to score or curtail other players from scoring with certainty. Focusing more on learning basketball concepts than mastering basketball skills.

XL Youth 3v3 Basketball Evaluations & Progress Report Cards:

Beginner- Refer to above beginner definition. This designation may require a try out process at the discretion of the XL Basketball Director for continued participation in XL Youth 3v3 Basketball.

Beginner with Benefits- Player is rated as a beginner, however, they are consistently noted as to be improving. Players that are also noted as being close to the intermediate level. Future XL Youth 3v3 Basketball Participation is at the discretion of the XL Basketball Director.

Intermediate - Refer to above definition.

Advanced - Solid fundamentals, skill levels above age range.

Elite - Top tier fundamentals, can make plays with high levels of accuracy and skill levels are significantly above age range.
